

MEET THE MCGILL UNIVERSITY FACULTY OF MUSIC

MUSIC FACULTY

Very few people on the campus are aware of the fact that the charmingly dilapidated old building on the south-east corner of the campus (the north-west corner of University and Sherbrooke, to you), is the home of McGill University's Faculty of Music. This building, which was officially opened to students some time in 1904. At that time the building provided more than ample space for the members of the faculty and those attending the school. However, since then interest in things musical in Montreal has grown to the point where the present quarters are only about one fifth of the size needed.

To add to the already big problem of inadequate space the building itself is settling in its foundations and is slowly slipping out into University street. The walls on this side of the building crumble regularly and have to be replaced at considerable cost to the University and considerable inconvenience to those using the building who must double up in their already crowded quarters during the alterations.

It is little wonder, then, that all those concerned look with anxious eyes to the present Fund Campaign in the fond hope that some of the money collected will eventually be apportioned toward the construction of a bigger conservatorium. In this issue The Daily is printing a few photographs taken in the Conservatorium in the last few weeks. It is their purpose to demonstrate the need for a new building.

Class lectures are held on the top floor in the one lecture room of the building. Here Mr. Duchow, the only lecturer for all years of form and analysis, history, and aural training, sits and talks to changing faces and into a thickening atmosphere, and by the end of the day only those in the first rows can hear his hoarse whisper. In winter the windows can't be opened and in summer the noise of the traffic outside prevents any such respite.

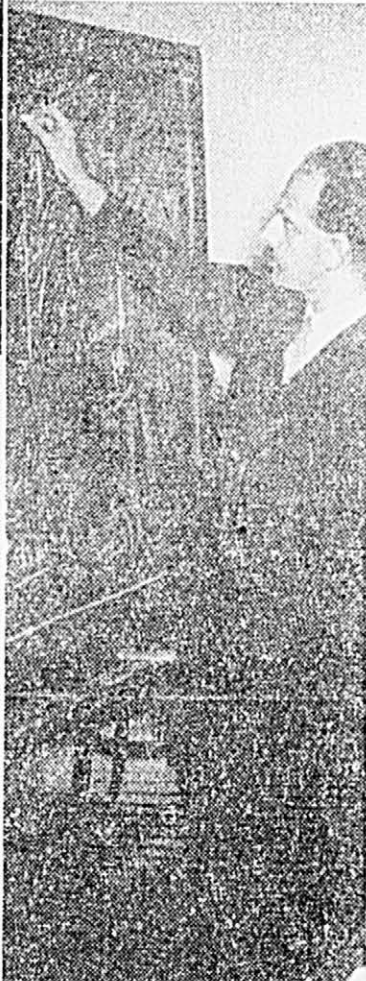

In the event of fire in the building any students on the top floor would be trapped. There are no fire escapes and the one staircase leading down from this Valhalla would collapse under the weight of a fleeing horde.

Happily, no one has yet been injured by plaster falling from the ceilings. Nor has anyone yet been made too dizzy to stand on the floors that slope crazily towards RVC.

As for the equipment in the building itself, no one at present in the building remembers when the last piano was bought. The pianos made available to students in the basement for practice purposes are so old that the tuner claims he is unable to do anything with them.

The organ on which the students practice and which is also used for teaching purposes has only four stops and a multitude of couplers, many of which do not work.

Most of the staff is disappointed with the building and conditions, and it is only their respect for the Dean, their faith in the University, and their hope of things that keep them at McGill and from moving on to greener pastures.

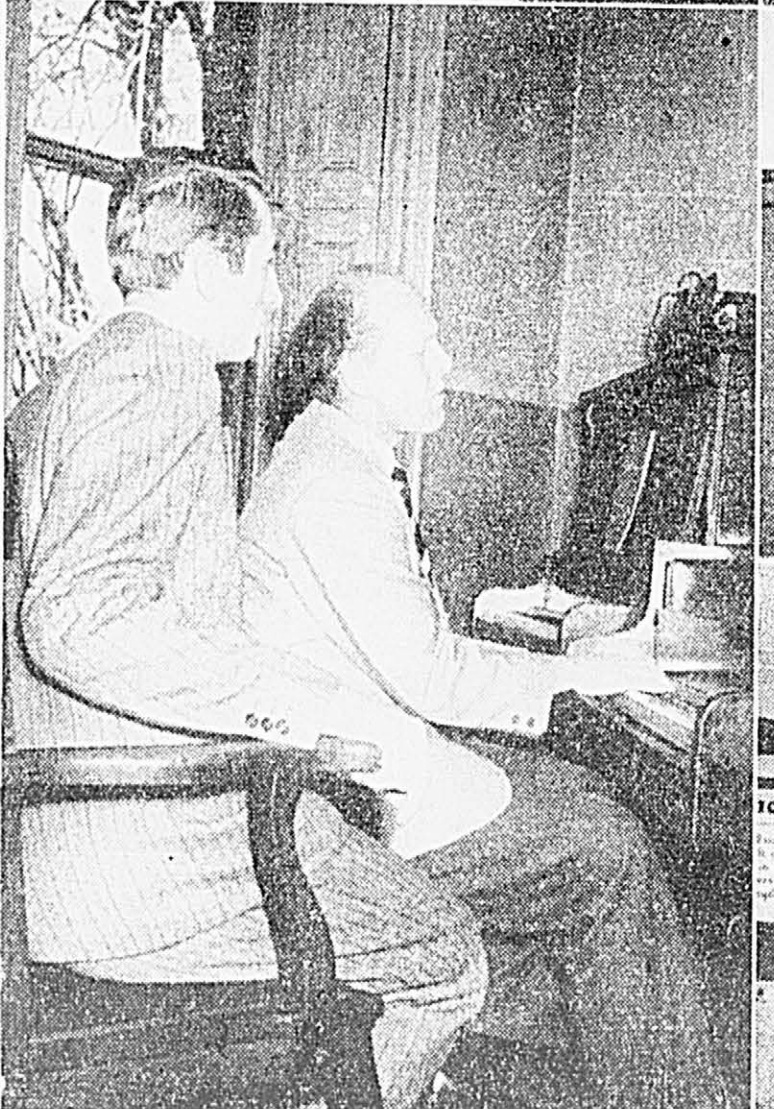

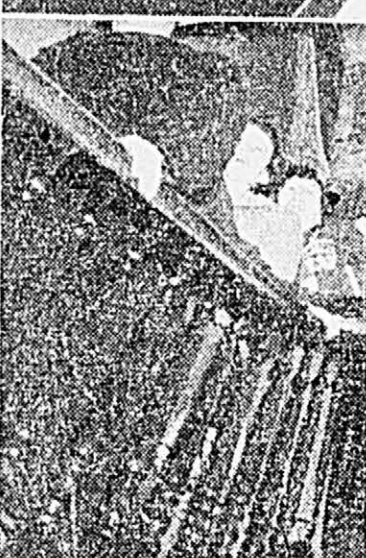

CAPTIONS

Reading from left to right and from top to bottom the photographs on this special feature page devoted to the Faculty of Music represent the Dean of the Faculty giving a lecture in composition to his advanced class; Dean Douglas Clarke, director of the conservatorium; Professor Marvin Duchow, lecturer in Form and Analysis; an unidentified young lady demonstrating one of the practice pianos for the benefit of Daily readers; Edward Grace, newly appointed secretary of the faculty; Professor Duchow illustrating consonances and dissonances to his class; the only staircase leading from the third floor and the only exit in the event of fire; Bernard Symons, popular member of the piano staff; and Miss Lenore Malmse, a Miss, enjoying a pleasant interlude at the photographer's expense; the staircase leading to the ground floor (and comment necessary); Helmut Blume, demonstrating a technical problem to one of his pupils; Miss Jean Miller, of the singing department, shaping a vowel for Barbara Lange, a hard-core view of one of the more exciting corners in the building; and last but by no means least Mr. Charles "Charlie" Clark, general factotum and keeper of the secrets of the building.

Final Arrangements Are Completed For British Tour of McGill Debaters

Trials To Be Completed Fri.

By GERRY HOPKINS
Plans for the proposed British tour of a McGill debating team have for all practical purposes been completed, it was learned by the Daily last night. The only remaining detail is the naming of the three debaters who are to compose the team.

FINALISTS NAMED
Elimination trials have been conducted during the past month to determine who should represent the university and the number has finally been reduced to six. They are Boris Berbrier, Ted Huggeson and Sidney Phillips of Law, Peter Sinclair and Roland Laprairie of Arts and Isadore Rosenfeld of Medicine. They will meet in a final, which will be open to the public on Friday, Dec. 17 at 4:30 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Union. The judges of the debate will be Professors George and MacIsaac and Principal James.

The topic for the final try-out will be: "Resolved that the Canadian Citizenship Bill will contribute to the dissolution of the British Commonwealth of Nations." Each speaker will be given ten minutes to present his side of the argument and the results will be made public immediately after the try-out is finished.

The tour will mark the first time since the late war that McGill has sent a team overseas. However, prior to the war, McGill and Oxford sent teams in alternate years to compete against each other. On this tour the McGill team will debate against teams representing Glasgow, Birmingham, Bristol, Oxford and London Universities in that order.

Hard Fight
These universities are internationally known for their debating teams and are expected to provide stiff competition for the McGill representatives.

Present plans provide that the team will leave on Jan. 10, fly to Prestwick, Scotland, travel to London by train, and then return to Montreal by air, arriving back here on or about Jan. 22. Permission has been obtained from the Deans of the various faculties for the debaters to be absent from lectures.

The Debating Society hope that a return tour by the British teams be arranged in the near future.

Canadian Universities Support I.S.S. Plan

Two more Canadian universities have decided to support the scheme of the Canadian Committee of International Student Service to bring D.P. and other European students to Canada to study.

The student body at Mount Allison University voted unanimously to sponsor one D.P. student and one other European student. At a recent general meeting of the student body, the students at St. Francis Xavier University voted to sponsor one D.P. and one other European student.

The I.S.S. scheme is to bring one D.P. and one other European to Canada for every 2,000 students in Canada. The D.P. students would remain in Canada but the others would return to Europe after a year in some Canadian university.

The plan was evolved after delegates to the I.S.S. Seminar in Germany last summer became aware of the desperate plight of D.P. students and the International Refugee Organization of the United Nations offered to provide transportation for D.P.'s if I.S.S. could get support from Canadian universities.

Choral Society Concert To Be Held at Mac.

The McGill Choral Society is giving its third annual concert at MacDonald College, Ste. Anne's, tonight, December 15th.

The concert at MacDonald is in the nature of a dress rehearsal, as it takes place two days before the "Sing At Christmas" Concert here in Montreal at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium.

Mr. Gifford Mitchell, the society's conductor, said in an interview with the Daily last night, "We have a grand group of singers in the Choral Society, and we're singing a lot of excellent music. The concert at MacDonald College and the Currie Gym should both be huge successes."

In previous years, the bus fare of the society's members to Ste. Anne's has been paid by the Society itself, but this year each student is paying his own way.

Sam Vatcher, who will be remembered for his part in last year's program, is making the trip to MacDonald College with the Choral Society, and he will give readings which will link together the songs, and tell the story of the first Christmas in Bethlehem. The second part of the program will tell of the symbols of Christmas. Mr. Vatcher is well-known in radio and dramatic offices here in Montreal.

The piece-de-resistance of this year's program is the much publicized choral version of Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite." The Choral Society will be singing Fred Waring's arrangement. In this number the singers will be accompanied by the Montreal pianist, Miss Doris Killam, who is very active as an accompanist and radio pianist.

Tickets for the Friday concert at the Currie Gymnasium by the Choral Society are still available at Willis and the International Music Store, and on the campus, at the Arts Building, Engineering Building and the Union.

Professors Defeat Plumbers in Debate

The resolution "That Canada should institute some form of compulsory military training" was roundly defeated in a debate yesterday noon when Professors W. Bruce and Mordell of the faculty of Engineering upheld the negative against the affirmative stand of two fourth year engineers, Ed. Gauthier and Herb Pragnell.

Arguments
The arguments of the affirmative that compulsory military training was a necessity for national defence and that it would improve the standards of education and Canadian life in general was refuted by the professors in statements which showed that the type of military which was formerly valuable has become obsolete in this atomic age. The negative also pointed out that peoples' money would be far better used to organize national sport and educational programs, thus raising the physical and mental preparedness of the nation to a higher level.

Professor Mordell stated that the morale which is a great aid in national defence is gained not by military training but through good

Dean's Notice

Mr. Lewis Mumford, distinguished American litterateur, sociologist and humanist, will deliver a University Lecture in Moyse Hall at 11 a.m. today. Mr. Mumford's lecture will be given under the auspices of the School of Architecture. His subject will be "The Impact of American Materialism on the Arts and Sciences." The lecture will be open to all members of the University and their friends.

Mr. Mumford would like to receive written questions in advance of his meeting. Such questions may be left at Room 15, Arts Building, H. N. FIELDHOUSE, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science.

Pre-Meds at Dawson College Present Review

The Rainbow Review, the first show of its kind ever to hit Dawson College, is to be presented in TI at 8:30 tonight. The show is being sponsored by the Dawson Pre-Med Society, and all proceeds of it are to go to the McGill Fund.

The show will be in the form of a vaudeville and will last for a full two hours. It is presented by a group that toured the Pacific battle fronts during the war and has been playing many engagements in Montreal since its return. The group is headed by Miss Olga Spencer and consists of 16 performers, 10 of which are girls.

The program will consist of musical numbers, vaudeville acts, and precision dancing routines, which will be performed by the cuties of the troupe. In addition, there will be skits and other forms of entertainment carried on by all the members of the cast. Backdrops, and lighting effects, supplied by Bob Giles, will be used to bring out the desired effects.

The admission is 50 cents per person, with tickets being sold both in the mess hall and at the door.

living conditions. He cited as his example the fine spirit of those Englishmen who turned out in full force for fire-fighting etc. although they were unable to go to the front themselves to fight.

Tuxedos vs. Uniforms
"Uniform manufacturers are out of business," said Ed Gauthier in an attempt to convince his audience that compulsory military training would benefit the whole nation, but Professor Mordell retorted with the statement that manufacturers profit a great deal more from the making of tuxedos and dress suits than of uniforms.

Herb Pragnell of the affirmative argued that military training was advantageous to the individual and that it did not necessarily dull his mental capacity, and he pointed to those veterans at McGill who are matching if not surpassing their younger classmates in many of their activities. He also stated that army training developed them both mentally and physically.

The debate was chaired by Colin McCallum and the decision was rendered to the negative by an almost unanimous show of hands from the audience.

Phillips Wins Papineau Cup For Debating

Sidney Phillips, by virtue of his victory over Doug Gross, yesterday became the holder of the Papineau Cup for debating.

Upholding the affirmative of the subject, "Resolved that the Second World War was fought in vain," Mr. Phillips asserted that as a result of the war we had lost economically, morally and militarily. Listing as motives for entering the war; desire for increased trade, freeing of the oppressed people of Europe, and desire for security and lasting peace, proceeded to show that none of these aims had been attained.

Today we no longer have the European markets, and are forced to search elsewhere for other smaller markets, he claimed. The oppressed people of Europe, he said, have by means of popular election refused the freedom which we proposed to bring them, and we are certainly no more secure today than we were in 1939. Mr. Phillips believed that this lack of security is shown in world wide fear of a coming depression and the East-West cleavage.

Mr. Gross upholding the negative of the resolution maintained, quoting Winston Churchill, that the chief aim of the war was "Victory at all costs, for without victory there is no survival." We have survived, and the insecurity we are experiencing now is the price we must pay for our freedom from the heel of Fascism, he asserted.

In awarding the decision to Phillips, the judges complimented both speakers on their presentation and remarked upon the closeness of the decision.

Niels Nielson, president of the Arts & Science debating society, was in the chair.

Dates Set for Revue; Open. Night Feb. 9th

The dates for the Red and White Revue of 1949 have now definitely been arranged. This year's show will take place in Moyse Hall from February 9th until the 15th.

This arrangement will be setting a precedent for McGill's annual stage production, as the opening night will be on a Wednesday. However, the Revue will run through to the following Tuesday with the exception of Sunday, when no show will be given. The usual seven performances will again be presented this year including a matinee on Saturday afternoon. This matinee is primarily designed for school children, and those who are absolutely unable to attend any of the evening performances.

It is expected that seats for the Revue will go on sale early in the second term. Mel Dultz, business manager, announced that all seats will be reserved, and priced accordingly. However, he left the impression that there might be a reduction in the price this year, but refused to comment any further at this early date.

'Key' Society Holds Banquet

A novel feature will be introduced this year at the annual Scarlet Key Society banquet to be held at 7 p.m. today in the Union Grill Room when nine prominent Montreal men connected with McGill University will be present as guests of honor.

In previous years, the prime function of this banquet has been the introduction of the new incoming Key to the old outgoing Key. Annual reports were read, elections for the new executive were held and felt key awards were made for the completion of a required number of assignments.

At this year's dinner being held today, the above business is on the agenda for this, the 1948 Key's last official meeting and the 1949 Key's first. In addition however, the following specially invited guests will see this society, the student body's official host to McGill, in operation while Key men will have a chance to meet some of the men who are working for our university behind the scenes.

The speaker at the banquet will be Asst. Registrar W. Bruce Ross. Other special visitors will include Comptroller S. H. Dobell; Hay Finlay; F. Fletcher, former sec. of the Undergraduates Society; Lorne Gaels, sec. of the Graduates Society. (Continued on Page 4)

Debaters To Meet Vermont U. Team

The annual McGill-U. of Vermont intercollegiate debate will take place this afternoon in the New Room at 5:00 p.m., on the topic "Resolved, that world wide socialism is the only hope for permanent peace." McGill will uphold the affirmative, Vermont the negative. As in the past, this will be a mixed debate.

McGill will be represented by Pat Coogan and Maurice Kelly. Both are experienced debaters. Miss Coogan was a member of the McGill team which won all their debates in the Intercollegiate Debating Tournament at Burlington this year, while Mr. Kelly has debated in the Montreal Debating League.

The University of Vermont will be represented by Mary Fuller, who is on the executive committee of the Newman Club there, and Dick O'Connell, is Defence Council for the student's court at Vermont.

The chairman will be Dan Morris.

Gen Night Discusses Chemistry

Odell, Lipsett, Paton Talk on Biochem. and Engineering

By MIKE SHARRATT

Another Arts and Science "Gen" night finally got under way at 8:30 last night in the Reading Room of the Union. Dr. Bruce Ross, who chaired the meeting, said that because the gathering was small more time would be left for a question period at the end.

First Speaker
Dr. Lipsett, who spoke first, obtained his B.Sc. from the University of Manitoba and his Ph.D. from McGill. Speaking on the general field of Chemistry, Dr. Lipsett said that of the 5,000 to 6,000 chemists in Canada 400 to 500 were presently employed in Montreal.

In regards to salary he mentioned that chemists engaged in Administration were highest paid with Research and Analytical chemists following in that order. As far as working conditions are concerned it was stressed that most large chemical plants were situated in small towns and that the present student of chemistry must realize that he may have to make his home in such a locale.

Do What You Like
Mentioning that there is at present a shortage of qualified chemists, Dr. Lipsett said: "If you like chemistry very much, go ahead, you can make a good living."

Dr. Arthur D. Odell, who was the next speaker, took his Ph.D. at the University of Toronto, and was decorated by the United States Government for his work on Biological Warfare.

Jobs Varied
Commenting that jobs in the Biochemical field were complex and varied, Dr. Odell said that he believed post graduate work to the level of doctorate was necessary if the profession was to be exploited to its fullest.

As to what the future held, he said that he believed that "all fundamental biochemistry will have to be re-written within the next decade."

In closing Dr. Odell said that on the whole industry fights shy of women scientists because of financial risk involved in losing them through marriage.

The final speaker, Mr. Paton, was in Germany following the war to investigate the advances made in that country in the production of Aluminum.

Experience Pays
A B.Eng. from McGill, he said that in his experience the things that paid off in his field were an ability to organize and an ability to get people to work for and to give their best for you, rather than a knowledge of pure science.

As an example, Mr. Paton told of a model steam plant he had to design in his final year at McGill. After several months research and hard work, he presented his effort to the professor who merely looked at it and shook his head. "Where," he asked, "is the laboratory?"

"The channel of progress," he said, "is more important than the starting wage." Although the meeting started out with about 30 interested students in attendance, this figure increased appreciably towards the end, when about 50 students were present. The drawing power of refreshments cannot entirely be discounted in this case.

In This Corner . . .

with Art Bronstein

Milt Orr, coach of the fighting Redmen, aided the McGill cause by slugging out a unanimous decision over Frank Bolla, 147 lbs. The occasion was the first Athletics Night of the current season and our alma mammy's boxing cuties emerged victorious in five of the seven bouts, an enviable record under any circumstances. Boxing three two minute rounds they were opposed by a galaxy of A.A.U. stars gathered from the Grenadier Guards, Terminal Park 'Y', St. Annes, and St. Pauls. The audience was by far the largest to witness a regular boxing meet at McGill and was ample indication of the tremendous surge in student interest in boxing. It certainly is a far cry from the days when the bouts were held in the B.W.F. room and the spectators were comprised of the seconds, the judges, and a sprinkling of individuals who preferred the secluded atmosphere of said sanctuary.

Employing a slinging right hook to the face, Orr conclusively proved that not only can he train a boxing squad of championship calibre, but that he can also toss the leather with the best. Little surprise that Milt has been intercollegiate champ the past two years.

John Heney superbly demonstrated Saturday why he has been intercollegiate champion in the 140 pounds division since February, 1947. In gaining the decision over Geo. Miller of St. Annes Johnny fought the best bout of his career and kept him at arms length throughout the contest except for those opportune moments when he blasted through his opponents guard. A long left hook followed by a right cross proved to be Heney's most effective weapon. Judging solely from his most recent performance he appears well assured of having the excellent record he established at McGill accompany him when he graduates from Commerce this spring.

The most promising newcomer Orr has unveiled is Bob McAllister. Fighting at 160 lb. Bob engaged in the most furious bout this Observer has sat on the edge of his chair to see. McAllister came out of his corner fiercely with a savage head attack and intent no doubt on a first round K.O. His opponent, Divisac, weathered the first round storm and went on to win the decision after Bob had expended all his energy. Certainly it would have been more prudent for Bob, fighting a previously unknown opponent, to size him up in the first round. Such action might have enabled him to earn the K.O. he so earnestly desired, or at least the decision.

Joe Kaplan, 125 lbs, scored a decisive victory for the Redmen in the opening bout and was followed by Bill Tetley who earned a somewhat closer decision in the 140 lb. division. Doug McLeod showed considerable promise as he battered his way to victory.

Between rounds . . . Irving Phillips, McGill's ancient coach who led the Redmen to the intercollegiate championship last year and trained intercollegiate champs Heney, Orr, and Griff Marshall was in the corner during Heney's and Orr's bouts. . . Ken Strew, manager, performed a terrific stunt in the corner. . . Bill Nichols may box in January. . . Couldn't close without telling about the time I was in California . . . used to box about 20 crates a day.

Waterpoloists Leading National in City Final

McGill's waterpolo squad, recently crowned Senior Intercollegiate champs, and holders of the Herchorn trophy, emblematic of the senior loop championship, commenced a second victory march last night as they downed Nationale 5-4 in the first game of a total point series, for the City of Montreal championship.

Don Walter, who has displayed brilliant form for the Redmen all season, once again found the opposition's netminding to his liking, as he rapped home three tallies to pace the Red and White squad to their initial tournament win. "One Way" Hal Corrigan and Taylor were the other marksmen for the winners.

McGILL LEAD

The first quarter opened at a fast and furious rate, with the McGill crew taking a decided edge both in play and points garnered as Walters and Corrigan both tallied to give the winners a 2-0 lead. As this initial stanza drew to a close, Tanguay put Nationale back in the game with a tally which came while the Redmen were short-handed.

McGill forged further into the lead in the second stanza, as Taylor finally found the range after Peliquin had held desperate Red and White rushers at bay, sending the ball high into the Twine for the lone tally of the period.

In the early minutes of the third quarter, Nationale finally came to life, and overwhelmed a short-handed Red and White crew the tune of two markers, to tie the count at three apiece. The first goal was due to an effort by Leonard of the Nats, and 30 seconds later, Marie and Tanguay combined to put the ball behind McGill netminder Hustin in the nicest looking play of the evening. As the third period drew to a close, Don Walter completed the second third of his hat-trick, as Cameron set him up for an easy counter.

As the teams took to the Legion Hall splash box for the final stanza, McGill lengthened their slim 4-3 lead as Walter scored his third and final goal of the evening to complete the Redmen's tallies for the game. With time running out, Nationale fought back as Marie blasted one past Austin with the McGill team finally emerging victorious by the final count of 5-4.

Rod Brown to Head SAC For 'B' Term

At a special meeting of the Students' Athletic Council yesterday afternoon, Rod Brown, fourth year commerce student and former boxing manager was elected chairman of the S.A.C. to succeed Chris Bovey.

Long associated with athletics at McGill, Mr. Brown is a familiar figure around the Athletics Office in the Gym. He has served a term on the S.A.C. as representative for boxing and has been for the past few months chairman of the managers' committee of the council. Other business taken up in the meeting included the approval of two trips for the swimming team to American colleges, and the refusal of an invitation for the ski team to compete in a meet at Banff on February 5th.

Approved was the proposed trip to Brooklyn College at Rensselaer, New York, and Howard College in Washington, D.C., for the swimming team. All expenses will be paid at both Rensselaer and Washington for the squad on the four days from January 21 to 24.

Refusal of the University of Alberta's invitation to the meet at Banff was made on the grounds that there were other meets scheduled for the season which would take up much of the skiers time. The uncertainty of weather conditions at that time of year and the expense attendant to the sending of the team by air were also factors governing the decision.

An exhibition game for the hockey team at Lake Placid was considered and given the green light by the council. This will take place on December 31st, at Lake Placid, and all expenses have been guaranteed by the Lake Placid team.

It was the ruling of the S.A.C. that henceforth only undergraduates will be permitted to play on the squash courts before 6:45 p.m.

Tonight will see an M.O.C. square dance session at 7:30 p.m. in the B.W.F. Room at the Currie Gym. A sing-song will follow. Calling will be done by John Waller, with possibilities of an appearance by the well-known caller, Lang.

Campbells Sr Redmen Tie Sherbrooke 3-3

Scoring once in the second and twice in the third period McGill's Senior hockey team held the powerful Sherbrooke St. Francis Q.S.H.L. club to a three all draw in Sherbrooke last night. Playing before a crowd of two thousand fans Campbell's clan staved off a desperate last minute rush by Sherbrooke to hold their vaunted opponents. Jack Gelineau starred in the Redmen's nets keeping the St. Kits marksmen at bay time after time. Sanderson also played an outstanding game on the blueline for McGill.

Sherbrooke Takes Lead

Sherbrooke, playing without their star Tony Demers, took an early lead when Bourdon countered on a solo effort at 9:45 of the first period. Robillard tied it up at the very beginning of the second period of play when he converted the dual passes of Hale and Sinclair.

Sherbrooke wasted no time in taking the lead for a second time. It was only a minute and eight seconds later when Cote made good on Goupille's pass to shoot the puck past Gelineau. Play was hard and fast for the remainder of the period and for 11½ minutes of the third period, when Heron tied up the game by converting Henry's pass. Henry himself sent McGill into the driver's seat for the first time in the game when he scored unassisted at 13:14. It again took Sherbrooke only a little more than a minute to tie it up when Brunet shoved Carnegie's pass past Gelineau for the tying marker. This goal was scored at 14:30 of the third period and closed the scoring even though the Cats put on a terrific last minute drive.

Only two penalties were handed out by the referee, both to Sherbrooke, in the clean, fast work together in a game which was played for the benefit of scholarships for McGill students from that district.

Plans in Full Swing for New Year's Eve Dance!

The entire McGill Union building will be decorated with appropriate holiday season trimmings for the New Year's Eve Ball. The Decoration Committee will have two co-chairmen, one is Doreen Fairman while the other is yet to be announced.

Extensive plans are being made to decorate the Ballroom, Reading Room, and Grillroom, all of which will be open to those attending the dance. It is expected that the Union will be bedecked with Christmas trees and streamers to add to the festive spirit of the occasion.

Tickets for the ball are now on sale at the Union tuckshop at $4.50 a couple, or can be obtained from Bob Frazier out at Dawson. Students are advised to buy their tickets early as they are selling fast. Students need not necessarily be in the Faculty of Arts and Science to attend the dance as it will be open to all attending McGill.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the crowning of Miss Arts and Science of 1949. Arts and Science President Len Harbourn will have the pleasure of crowning the queen, while Barbara Hodgson, who was chosen Miss Arts and Science of 1948, will be on hand to help with the judging.

The freshette who is crowned will receive reservations for two, with all expenses paid for herself and her escort at the Normandie Roof on New Year's Eve.

The student guests will include Bob Frazier, who is President of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society at Dawson; Bob Gill, President of the S.E.C.; Jack Crepeau, McGill Union President; and Joan Radley, President of the Women's Union.

The committee in charge of the dance is headed by Harry Miller, while other members of his staff include Neils Nielson, who is house manager for the occasion, Fay Rodriguez, in charge of tickets, and Joan O'Connell, who is looking after the catering.

Poster Prizes Announced

A poster entered by Sylvia Singer, Fine Arts 1, was awarded first prize by unanimous decision last night when the judges of the Winter Carnival Poster Contest met to consider the merits of the submitted artwork.

All posters will be displayed in the Union cafeteria which is open to both men and women.

The winning poster was acclaimed for its simplicity and clarity, as well as its significant symbolism. It depicts a large white snowman on a red background, with the words "Winter Carnival" across it in novel black lettering. Photographs have been taken of the winning posters and will be published in the Daily and the Annual.

Second prize went to K. S. Flitton, B.Sc. 4, who featured a Winter Carnival Martlet superimposed on a McGill Crest, all against a black background.

Instead of the four prizes originally planned, it was decided by the committee to double the number of awards, due to the high standard of the entries and the large number of posters submitted.
